

Who We Are

The Key to Success

One Stop Shopping.

For more than 25 years, One Planet has been a trusted industry leader that creates foreign-language versions of software documentation, multilingual websites, equipment manuals, multilingual excellence for English language marketing collateral and provides a global reach for e-commerce.

From translating a business card to annual reports to localization engineering, production, functional and linguistic testing and any forms of communication in between, we have the most cost-effective solutions for your company.

We never drop the ball.

Specializing in multi-language and multi-platform projects, we are one of the very few translation companies that can provide software localization in a number of languages simultaneously.

Our localization solutions have been effectively used worldwide by corporations such as Abbott Laboratories, DuPont, GE, General Dynamics, Honda, Rockwell and many more.

We have bridged language and cultural gaps for these multinational corporations and helped to give them the competitive edge overseas. We can do the same for your company.

It's all good.

Our suite of services goes beyond technical translation and software localization. We are committed to quantitatively improving the quality of your international business and the efficiency of offline and online operations that support it.

We are ISO 9001-2000 compliant and use SAE J2450 standard for measuring quality. Meaning that everything we do is fully documented and the processes are stringently followed.

We are proud to deliver significant value to our clients through technological expertise, comprehensive methodologies and a highly experienced staff. We always deliver on time and on budget.

Similar schools of thought.

We work with your people to translate technical manuals, software files, websites and marketing collateral into the languages of your customers.

We understand that the end result must transcend ambiguities, cultural nuances and linguistic connotations. Your documentation will always be clearly understood and culturally correct no matter where in the world it appears.

ur promise.

At One Planet, we strive to develop fully transparent translations with your company's infrastructure. Quite simply, we promise complete solutions. Some call that peace of mind. We call it The Key to Success.

If our work doesn't measure up to your standards, it doesn't measure up to ours. Quality is the cornerstone of our business. Our clients tell us we deliver significant value. We think you will too.
